Col. Stewart's Oil
A Brave Man Dead
Convicts for Experiment
Ships and Cigarettes
By Arthur Brisbane

ACCORDING to reports from the State Street, Chicago's Wall Street, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. has won his fight against Col. Stewart for control of Standard Oil of Indiana, Wall Street doubts it.

The fight interests 85,000 stockholders in the Indiana company. They and a million of other oil stock owners, would like answers to these questions. Is a big fight coming? Will the oil industry be made uncertainly more uncertain?

If Col. Stewart wins his fight and breaks off one section from Standard Oil, what will that mean to the other section? And what will it mean to Standard Oil of Indiana?

Col. Stewart's friends declare that he and his company could go it alone, depending not at all on Rockefeller's good will.

Standard Oil of Indiana, they say, was worth $170,000,000 when Stewart took charge, and is now worth more than $100,000,000. The Indiana company alone is bigger than the whole Rockefeller enterprise was when John D. Rockefeller was in active charge. Figures given concerning the Indiana Oil unit are amazing. The company has a production of 125,000 barrels of oil a day in the Venezuela Lago oil field alone.

No dry well has been driven there and the production might be increased to 400,000 barrels daily. In the Salt Creek region Standard of Indiana has 50,000 barrels a day production. Its half ownership of the Sinclair pipe lines running from the Gulf to Chicago enable it to tap all the mid-continent wells. Other oil holdings in the Salt Creek region, the Tulsa Oil Company and in Mexico, amounting to millions of acres, make Col. Stewart's company independent of all alliances. That Indiana property seems to be worth a fight.

Those that pity themselves because their health is "not what it ought to be," may consider the operating table, under the German light, as a necessary part of the operation for a cure that had affected him for years.

Suffering hopelessly, knowing that he could not live long, and must endure many operations, Von Hunsfeld planned and carried out the German light, across the Atlantic ocean.

Such courage and self-power should make others ashamed to complain.

Cuba discusses legalizing a plan to inoculate with smallpox what is called to be, may consider the operating table, under the German light, as a necessary part of the operation for a cure that had affected him for years.

Scientists will be allowed to make experiments in inoculation and vaccination.

Cancer, if treated near the surface, away from vital organs, might be observed, for a few minutes, then removed safely and permanently. Volunteers should be numerous. Moral objections will surely be answered.

The new shipbuilding program to cost $274,000,000, spread over three years, is called "the program that the country can't afford."

A nation that can afford to spend a billion dollars yearly on cigarettes, cigars and smoking tobacco, should be able to spend 25 per cent of that amount, in three years, to be able to smoke cigarettes in safety.

Maria Christina, mother of the Spanish King, is dead. She ruled as regent during the King's boyhood, while Don Juan was crowned in his little Spanish war to prove that he remembered the Malin.

Under the late dowager queen's rule Spain lost nearly all that remained of once great colonial possessions. An Austrian by birth, daughter of Archduke Charles Ferdinand, Maria Christina lived to see her native country shrink from a great empire to a little pile of land around the great city of Vienna.

Trotsky, once assistant ruler of Russia, is missing. The ship supposed to carry him has reached port; no Trotsky aboard. Rumor has him imprisoned in Moscow, with Russia deciding what to do with him. Trotsky's most recent remark was to the effect that "Russia's situation will evoke another Napoleon."

You can call spiritism from the vantage deep, but they don't always come. Breaking a Napoleon's empire, and Napoleon himself might have difficulty, if Stalin got him.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BOSTON, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1929.

STUDENTS RIOT

Harvard students returning from a hockey game early today, manifested their exultation over victory in a wild riot, injuring at least one person and causing considerable damage in a Cambridge town. The riot on which the outbreak was staged.

An elderly woman, caught in the vortex of the struggle, was assisted from the train when it drew into the Central station in Cambridge. The riot continued unabated to the Harvard station, when the students piled out into the street and dispersed before police from the Braintree station arrived.

The celebration of the students over the hockey victory was heightened by the fact that it was scored over the University Club, a team which had defeated the Crimson six times in the season.

The game was played at the Garden and at its conclusion, the students poured into the train at the North station. Aside from occasional shouts across the train, the students were quiet enough on this side of the Charles River.

In the Cambridge tunnel, however, their spirits apparently soared. Their first move was to remove the lights in the forward car.

Elevated employees tried in vain to quiet the rioters as the advertising signs were stripped from the side of the car and the bell cord was cut.

As soon as the train arrived at the Harvard station, the Braintree police station was notified and officers rushed to meet them.

Elevated officials said today that disturbances in Cambridge subway trains after Harvard hockey games have been a common occurrence in the past. In one similar outbreak recently a Harvard student was arrested.

COMMON OCCURRENCE

The last riot was confined to the two front cars of the train. The greater damage was caused in the first car, where the bell cord was cut, two windows smashed out and all the lights removed and broken.

The hockey game was the Harvard team's first after a midwinter layoff. In the previous game with the University Club, the latter, aided by the services of George Owen, defeated the Crimson. Last night, without Owen, the University Club took a 5-to-3 defeat.

Only 37 Flu Cases

Make This Low Day

Thirty-seven new cases of influenza were reported today to the State Department of Health. This is the lowest daily total recorded since the outbreak of the disease early in November.

The total number of cases for the month to date, still high when compared with the same period a year ago when there were only 11 cases.

New labor pneumonia cases reported today totaled 58, or 24 less than yesterday.

MUSSOLINI 'SENT BY HEAVEN'

Rome, Feb. 7 (AP)—Formal announcement of the conclusion of a momentous agreement between the Holy See and Italy for settlement of the long-pending Roman question involving the relations between the Vatican and the Italian state, was made today by Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state.

Having summoned the diplomatic body accredited to the Vatican, the Cardinal briefly communicated news of the agreement which is everywhere looked upon as one of the most important events in modern history.

Immediately after the meeting of the diplomats at the state apartment in the Vatican, Cardinal Gasparri was received by Pope Pius, who said he was exceedingly pleased.

I am so happy about what has happened and I am sure that the Premier Mussolini will be just as happy. It is a great day for the Pope and for the country. It is a day of Providence to put an end to the uncomfortable position of the Pope in Rome.

IMPRESSIVE MEETING

Although the meeting of the diplomats was exceedingly brief, it was extremely impressive. The Cardinal, dressed in his red robes and red skull cap, told the diplomatic body which had grouped around a large oblong table that a two-fold treaty had been concluded between Italy and the Vatican.

Part one concerned the question of consultation between church and state, a question that has been of grave import ever since the loss of imperial power in 1870 when Italian troops entered Rome. The second part was in three sections and regulated the future relations between the Holy See and Italy.

This agreement will be signed on Sunday in the Lateran Palace. Meanwhile there are a few small details which will be ironed out.

At the conclusion of the meeting all the ambassadors and ministers hurried to communicate with their respective governments.

TO SIGN IN PAPAL HALL

Already preparations are being made at the Lateran Palace where the historic agreement will be signed on Sunday, Cardinal Gasparri, secretary for the Pope, and Premier Mussolini for King Victor Emmanuel.

The ceremony will be held in a large hall, the first of the new buildings which contain the best specimens of the so-called Christian Museum. The Lateran Palace was the original residence of the Popes from the time that the Emperor Constantine converted himself to Christianity until the return of the Holy See from Avignon more than a thousand years ago.

The original palace, which was much larger than the present structure, was erected by Pope Sixtus V at the end of the 16th century.

CRUISERS BILL RUM WAR SPLITS FIRST IN HOUSE SELECTMEN IN LIST TODAY

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—One final inspection by the House and the finished cruiser bill is expected to be on its way to the President.

The measure was first on the House program today. Chairman Britten of the House naval affairs committee had prepared a motion for unanimous adoption of the two Senate amendments.

Written, one of the bill's sponsors, expected no objection to his proposal, but House leaders had arranged to meet any dissenting voices by having in readiness a special rule to make the Britten motion in order without debate.

Both Senate and House had appropriated bills on the calendar today. Next to the amended cruiser bill on the House program waited the $274,000,000 naval supply bill. The Senate had before it the $447,000,000 War Department appropriations bill.

Four supply measures are in conference, the first deficiency bill and those for the Agriculture and Interior Departments and for independent offices. Two other appropriations measures are on the House list. The second deficiency bill and that for legislative expenses funds.

hero of a previous rescue, who lowered himself by a rope from the bridge and drew them to safety.

Butler was assisted in raising Sears and Burns to the bridge by Draughton, John H. McCarthy of Governor Winthrop's staff, and by passing motorists, one of whom carried the rescued men home before the arrival of the police.

SKIDS ON ICE.

According to the police, the car, "rattling" at a rapid pace, was headed toward Medford when it struck a sheet of ice on the bridge. Seizing the heavy machine, it slipped over the sidewalk, smashed through the railing and plunged into the river, which was at full tide.

Traffic was light across the bridge at the time, but Butler, working on the road, witnessed the accident and immediately went in action. Unfastening a life preserver, attached to the bridge by a long line, he heaved it into the water where the struggling forms of the motorists already were visible. Then Butler climbed the rail, slid down the line and reached the edge of the automobile.

By this time Draughton McCarthy had arrived and attempted to grab the car.

AUTOISTS ARE RESCUED.

The load was too heavy, however, so Butler instructed the motorists to cling to the life preserver, while he went up the line and over the bridge. Then he and McCarthy, with the aid of several motorists who had stopped their cars nearby, hauled the dripping and nearly exhausted man to safety.

Butler repeated the performance with the second motorist, who had been clinging to the piling of the bridge, and got him out of the water as he was about to collapse. Both rescued men were then hurried into an automobile and taken home by George Butler of Fairview rd, Boston.

400 Skaters Plunge in River as Ice Breaks

Vienna, Feb. 7 (AP)—Four hundred skaters were precipitated into the waters of the Danube at Ratten (Regensburg), Bavaria, today when the ice suddenly broke. First aid was not at once available.

An indescribable panic followed the breaking of the ice. The merry-go-round in a moment became a struggling, screaming mass of humanity as the victims fought with the shattered ice and each other in their frantic efforts to reach the shore.

Sisters Fight Axe Duel For Love, and Both Lose

Warsaw, Feb. 7 (AP)—Maria and Josephina Szardos, sisters of Leszayza, fought a duel with axes and killed each other today in an attempt to decide which should marry the man who had courted both.

The man involved had asked the women whether he was to marry.

The women retired into the forest, each armed with an axe. The duel was decided in an instant. Maria's axe severed the arteries of Josephina's neck and at the same moment both sisters crashed to the ground.

DELAY SALE OF U. S. LINERS IN SHIP MERGER

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Members of the Shipping Board agreed today to confer with the Senate Commerce Committee before giving a contract for the sale of the Atlantic fleet of the Government shipping lines.

Chairman O'Connor of the board announced at the outset that the board had not decided to accept any bid. Paul W. Chapman, the submitted the highest bid for the Atlantic fleet with $100,000.

O'Connor said the board had investigated the reliability of Chapman and was now investigating the finances of the other bidders.

DENY DOT RUTH IS CHILD OF 'LIFER'

Denial that Dorothy Helen Ruth, adopted daughter of "Babe" Ruth, is the child of a woman serving a 20-year term for murder came sharply today from family counsel in Boston and from Warren E. Jennings of Auburn, N. Y., prison.

The assertion that the eight-year-old child was born in Auburn prison to Mrs. Pearl O'Neil, convicted murderer, was made in an affidavit at Rochester, N. Y., by Mrs. O'Neil's former attorney, Mr. E. M. O'Neil, of that city.

Attorney James J. Conlin of New York, personal counsel for the late Mrs. Helen Ruth, denied the charge that Mrs. Helen Ruth, who died in a Western fire, was in Boston today, winding up her estate.

Get $8000 in Rum in "Exclusive Home"

Springfield, Feb. 7 (AP)—A Springfield, Mass., residential auction, Forest Park, was invaded by Federal agents who seized $8000 worth of liquor in the home of Mrs. Columbian Bonelli. She was arrested.

"The story appearing in the papers today is entirely unfounded and is preposterous," she said. "I have absolutely no hand in fact."

From Jackson Hannigan, counsel for the Woodford family of South Boston, son of Mrs. Ruth, came the statement.

"Mrs. Ruth's family do not take the claim seriously at all. The claim was not put forward until after Dorothy was known to have property. This indicates an attempt to get a piece of the case."

Warren Jennings, in whose custody Mrs. Pearl O'Neil has been since her daughter was born in Auburn prison, declared the baby was adopted by an elderly couple. He declined to give the couple's identity.

SAVES OREGON SLAYER ON DAY HE IS TO DIE

Mexico City, Feb. 7 (AP)—After he had made all preparations to die before a firing squad at daybreak, Jose de Leon Tort, self-confessed assassin of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, received a new lease of life today.

By order of President Emilio Portes Gil, Tort's death sentence will not be carried out until the executive can consider the application that the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

President Portes Gil, who is in Ciudad Victoria, Tamaulipas, is expected to telegraph his decision to Mexico City.

After the Supreme court announced the appeal, based upon the contention that the jury had been intimidated, Tort's lawyer telegraphed the President requesting executive clemency. That was the last hope for the slayer.

Tort had given up hope. He received the last sacrament of the Catholic Church early today in preparation for his death.

Today, in the real sense, Tort was the Christian. He had seen all of his opportunities for profitable business.

Clubwomen's Great Influence Stressed

FROM being blundered in pioneer days as dangerous members of society, the 2,000,000 clubwomen of America are now eagerly sought after by big business, politicians and others wishing their tremendous influence.

As Mrs. Mina del Castillo at the Club Institute, General Federation music chairman, spoke to 300 club presidents and officers at the Hotel Vendome on "The Potential Power of Our Women's Clubs."

"Women have come far indeed since those early days when clubwomen were generally regarded with suspicion, distrust and satire," she said. "The few avenues were open to us that if here and there, adventurous spirits strayed from the narrow path allotted to the female of the species."

They were dubbed as members of the "short-haired women and long-haired men" group and were shunned as dangerous members of society.

"Even in music, my chosen field, the first woman violin virtuoso, Camille Kiro, was not above the sun after heart-breaking opposition and struggle."

"The subjects discussed by women's clubs for years were most trivial, since they were on the narrow, circumscribed life of the women of that time. Yet, these subjects were starting points to the wide variety now discussed as our business, socially and otherwise."

The United, non-partisan work done by American clubwomen in securing a greatly increased representation during the last presidential campaign, was cited as an example of the potential power in their hands.

Mrs. John H. Kinball, state education chairman and fourth vice-president, led the discussion on how far club should participate in local politics and a lively exchange of opinions followed.

Others speaking on club policies were Mrs. Raymond Merrill, Roxbury Women's Council; Mrs. Arthur Russell, Hyde Park Club; Mrs. Frank L. Russell, Swanport Women's Club; Mrs. Frank W. Hammond, Lotthrop Club; Mrs. Beverly Mrs. Budelette Webster, Nahant Women's Club; and Mrs. Clinton Perry, Needham Women's Club.

COLD BLAST ON WAY TO HUB FROM WEST

Colder weather is slated tonight for Greater Boston on the heels of the departing rainstorm, which carried a rapid, springlike thaw hereabouts.

Commuters who rallied at driving rain and darkness this morning may get a grain of comfort out of the fact that Northfield, Vt., reported a snowfall in excess of six inches.

Swirling eastward from Minnesota, where the mercury is 20 below, a cold wave has already chilled all sections of the country as far as the Mississippi Valley, but the present trend indicates New England will escape the brunt of the frigidity.

Until late night the current storm was scheduled to precipitate appreciable showers on this section, but hopes are held out for clearing weather before dawn with consequent cloudless skies tomorrow.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy and colder tonight and Friday; fresh north and north-west wind. The minimum temperature tonight will be near 30 above.

The legislative committee on harbors and public lands held a hearing on the report of the special commission which recently investigated a matter of correcting unsatisfactory conditions in Savin Hill Bay.

BUILDING NOT TO BURN

Do we build to BURN? Suggested by the frightful fire waste of this country, even deeply concerned have often asked this question.

There has been a sad lack of foresight in providing defenses against fire, especially in the construction of buildings for mercantile and industrial use, and in buildings where large numbers of people are housed.

But there are numerous activities maintained by the Stock Fire Insurance companies, which aim for a better day when America shall consistently build NOT TO BURN.

One of these is the Department of Building Construction, which has co-ordinated all present day information on proper building methods. For many years it has been the leading clearing house of information in safety construction.

This is a well known agency in the reduction of the fire waste and the consequent decline in the average cost of fire insurance. This and the several other voluntary measures of Hazard Elimination form a part of fire underwriting as conducted by the Stock Fire Insurance companies.

The information in its possession is based upon the latest scientific engineering facts and is supported by more than fifty years experience in fire underwriting by the 229 stock fire insurance companies which transact more than ninety percent of the fire insurance business of the United States.

Few indeed are the municipal building codes that are not used in whole or in part by the information and services of the Department of Building Construction. This department is hard at work in co-operation with officials and all others in authority in the interest of safety construction. Its services are available through

Most Prosperous Industries Prove Those Well Managed

By R. C. FORBES

ARE the most prosperous American industries those that have been best managed? Yesterday's market was a case in point.

Many of the most successful industries which have done poorly, look at the record and the management of industries which have done well.

The automobile industry has had the most dazzling history of them all. It has made more millions than any other industry during the present century. Thousands of stockholders own even a modest share.

B. C. Forbes

But the automobile industry has not made more than $100,000,000 in profits since 1913, as well as one famous billion-dollar fortune. In few industries have fortunes been made.

It is the quality of the product, its dependability, its efficiency and its attractiveness. Nowhere else has the cost of living in some two decades been higher than in the automobile industry. Research has been conducted on an unparalleled scale. Later, too, foreign markets have been opened up with tremendous energy.

In short, America's motor industry ranks among the very best in the world.

What of the electric industry? America has led the world in the whole field of electricity. General Electric and Westinghouse are without equals in any part of the world. Millions upon millions of dollars have been intelligently spent by them in searching for new inventions.

Year after year electrical equipment of all kinds have been produced. Effective advertising has been liberally employed. Like the motor dealer, the electric dealer buys more today than it did in the past, despite the doubling of wages and the enormous rise in almost everything we use.

The American Telephone Company long ago set the pace for the telephone industry.

Exception of machinery in mills from local assessment and the substitution of an increased income tax in its stead is recommended by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers as a means of relieving the tax burden of Massachusetts cotton mills.

As proposed by the taxation committee of the association was accepted by the Massachusetts legislature. Long in a communication to day.

Improper valuation of mill properties for purposes of local taxation, the committee declares, compelling the industry to bear an unjust share of the tax burden in Massachusetts. "It is true," the committee's report continues, "that certain localities have been assessed by assessors, but we do not wish to say that in any but exceptional instances the assessments are substantially in excess of the fair cash value of the properties."

"We feel the only solution possible in this State is to exempt machinery from local taxation and to substitute an increased income tax in its stead."

According to the latest figures available here, the association says, all textile establishments in Massachusetts, including wool, silk, hosiery, etc., have paid taxes to the Federal, State and local authorities, in a year when the net loss was $2,000,000.

Taxes paid by cotton mills in Massachusetts, it is stated, have almost trebled since 1913 and are nearly four times the amount paid in 1896.

Discussing the situation from a national viewpoint, the association declares that 23 1/2 per cent of all the sales of cotton products are by the entire industry are paid in taxes.

E. Coast Utilities in Market for Funds

Watered Stock Agitation Dropped; Earnings as Guide

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKESYER

THE old-time agitation against watered stock has all but disappeared, and nowadays in this so-called new era the public is watered on its own terms.

Watering represents an issuance of stock for less than its face value, and the current practice is to base market value on earnings, not on the face value of the stock.

In connection with the widespread attempt to make real estate more valuable by converting buildings into security exchanges, E. H. Simon, president of the New York Stock Exchange, who is a well-informed if not entirely disinterested authority, has issued a note of caution.

"At the same time, one cannot read the papers without realizing the danger to the American investing public of the sudden rise of unscrupulous and badly managed security exchanges which are being constituted. There is little use in attempting to organize such exchanges merely to create membership lists."

Chairman Robert W. Stewart, of the Rockefeller Foundation, has declared to celebrate with a 50 per cent increase in the value of the Rockefeller Foundation, which is a result of the Rockefeller Foundation's policy of holding the value of the Rockefeller Foundation's stock at a level of $100 per share.

Following a readjustment of the capital structure of the Spalding & Bros. Co., the largest manufacturer and distributor of athletic goods in the United States, a five-for-one split of its common shares, an issue of 50,000 shares of new common stock is offered.

Whether the market will turn over, or stay flat, was the big question in financial and speculative circles in the New York City market today. The Federal Reserve Board that it has been widely expected to credit from speculation.

MELTON S. CHAPMAN, chairman of the Treasury, notified the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Board that the reserve system does not require the use of the Federal Reserve Board for the creation or extension of currency.

"Paper representing speculative loans will not be rediscounted at the Federal Reserve Bank," said Mr. Melton. "So much of the country's credit is tied up in speculative loans that the Federal Reserve Bank is unable to handle them."

Several small drops in prices were early in the day, but a decline of the market after the close of the day was not expected. The market was expected to be steady, with a slight decline in the afternoon.

Stribling Forced to Change Style to Develop Sock

By W. L. (YOUNG) STRIBLING
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—In 1921, at the age of 16, I was launched on a career as a professional boxer. From then until about three years ago father and I had the idea that skill as a boxer was all that I needed to carry me along to the heights and lift me into what is called "big money."

But along in 1926 we came to the realization that our theory was wrong, that the public wasn't so keen about sitting in at an exhibition of false science, but that it wanted slugging matches and knockouts.

There was but one thing to do and father ordered it done. My fighting style was changed, instead of being a boxer, I was to be a slugger. I was to put my attention on putting over knockouts.

Went back in my old days when I was boxing on the stage with my mother, father or younger brother, I was always permitted to let go with all I had in my left hand but was cautioned, especially as I grew older and heavier, to "take it easy" with my right.

The result was that I started shipping with my right rather than with my left as I learned that the right hand was the professional's tool.

Knockouts credited to me in the earlier part of my career usually were produced by battering a man down with a shower of punches, or knocking him and practically finishing him with the left.

With father and I decided that we'd line up a bit of dynamite in both hands—especially in the right, there began long tedious practice sessions.

Dempsey Sure Big Go Will Make Money

By JACK DEMPSEY
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—Promoting the Stribling-Sharkey fight is the toughest job I have tackled in all my life.

But every ounce of energy that is within me goes into the effort to make it a success.

I took it over as an inheritance from Tex Rickard. It was his dream to build a boxing arena in Miami. He died in the hospital, and I took over from him.

Tex never lived to find out whether his faith in Florida as a fight spot was justified.

The job that was his—the job of putting it over—has fallen upon me. I stepped into it knowing that I was taking over the work of a master.

It thus becomes the toughest spot of my lifetime, but I have not yet found anything about it to make me shakely, any more than I do about the fight to create a new era in boxing.

As for the public in bunking the public in matters that are of interest to them, I have no doubt.

It is because that I—am and shall be—my policy, I say now that if the gate does not hit between $50,000 and $100,000 it will be terribly disappointed.

Requests for tickets, even before we had made arrangements for the actual arena in which the bout is to be staged, hit around $2500 a ticket. It was decided the battle would be put on in Flamingo Park, the arena for reservations is open at once and before we opened a ticket office.

HARD WORK FOR BOYS INTO GO

Sharkey In Exhibition Bout; Referee Not Yet Chosen for Battle Feb. 27

By JACK CONWAY

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—Ballyhoo in connection with the Battle of Miami is on in full blast now that a regiment or so of war correspondents and a couple of companies of photographers and movie operators are entrenched here.

They arrived on a special train from New York.

After the boys had been pepped up by Florida oranges and some of the stuff they run over from Havana, you may expect to see the old ballyhoo roll along pretty hot.

Sharkey, beginning today, are going to give the noble war correspondents something to write about.

Sharkey is booked to work out at the Miami Kennel Club here today, while Stribling is expected to end to do some road work and possibly a little bag punching.

Paul Hoffman of New York, one of Sharkey's sparring mates, will arrive here tonight. He will accompany Jack to Tampa where he is to give a boxing exhibition tomorrow evening.

Pat McCarthy of Rocher has been wired transportation to Miami. He will work here with Sharkey and will appear in one of the bouts on the Sharkey-Stribling card.

With Sharkey playing golf and Stribling enjoying life along the beach, the correspondents started a controversy over the question of referee.

Those from the North are insisting on a northern referee, while the southern writers demand that the third man in the ring come from Dixie.

CONTRACT SETTLES IT
When the fiery clerk of typewriter was at it, he had, Johnny Sharkey, stepped into the picture saying his contract with the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Conditions in regard to the referee were published in the Boston Evening American several days ago, but they were still news to boys from New York.

The contract provides that the referee be mutually agreed upon by Sharkey and the Madison Square Garden Corporation. In the event of these parties failing to come to terms, and it is each their word, the choice will be made by the Massachusetts boxing commission.

In the event the Massachusetts men should fail to act, Dempsey would name the referee.

PLAN O. K. WITH STRIB
O. Stribling has no objection to the Massachusetts commission naming the referee. He boxed in Boston six times and made the decision on each occasion. He was always treated fairly by the Bay State State officials.

Meanwhile the names of Lou Magnus of New York, Dave Miller of Chicago, Slim McEllean of Detroit, Matt Hinkle of Cleveland and Harry Stone of Milwaukee are being mentioned as possible referees.

NO FARMER'S RELIEF HERE

Joe Malcewicz, the mat game, tackles Farmer McLeod at the arena tonight.

MEET EX-CHAMP TONIGHT

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Best two falls in three win the bout, with American Association rules governing.

Bowser has a contract that he will hold champion into the summer of 1928, but he is not yet ready to make the contract.

Two other matches and a bout of the line will be held on the same night. Stribling has a half-hearted bout with the Maine wrestler, but he is not yet ready to make the contract.

It is in fine shape for the fight, but he is not yet ready to make the contract.

The advance sale of the tickets for the fight is very good, and it is expected that the arena will be filled to capacity.

Cunard Line Sets Passenger Record

For the most successful voyage in the Cunard Line's transatlantic travel, according to a statement given out by General Passenger Manager Harold D. Bruce, Bruce states that the Cunard and associated lines carried 291,488 passengers across the Atlantic during 1928 and that the number carried by the nearest competitor totaled 250,000. Adding to this the 400,000 passengers on the special New Year's eve sailing of the Campania to Havre, the Cunard Line's grand total for the year reaches 741,478.

"With the summer rush season running well into the middle of August, as happened the last two seasons," continues Bruce, "1929 should run about 750,000."

A 25 per cent increase of space has already been booked for next summer, and it is expected that the Cunard Line will book many months ahead of the season, and it is expected that the demand for rooms will be great.

The Cunard Line has added many of its rooms with the new Campania, which is a new record, breaking its own record, and it is expected that the demand for rooms will be great.

DRYS FIGHT FOR 'UNJUST LAW'

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 7 (AP)—More than 200 offenses are eliminated from the list of felonies now included in the habitual criminal section of Michigan's criminal code under provisions of an amendment designed to remove liquor offenses and others of a so-called minor nature from the list.

The measure providing for this change, drafted by William S. Hawker, attorney-general, was before the House Judiciary Committee today.

The amendment provides that a single liquor offense, a fourth conviction must be a crime denominated a "habitual" offense, and that the maximum penalty of not less than five years for a first offense.

A Rush-Hour Evil

Police in Plain Clothes Should Watch for Those Offenders

Slashing of the clothing of several young women in "El" trains recently, although obviously an abnormal case, calls attention to a general condition that prevails in rush-hour trains.

Amorance to women and girls among the strap-hanging crowd is a far too common occurrence to go on without some action in authority taking steps to stop it.

Only once in a long while does a feminine passenger care to put herself in the spotlight in a crowded car and convict her man, although should more of them do so they would doubtless find chivalrous and effective help at hand.

In a recent case, the victim became hysterical whereupon a male passenger got a policeman at the terminal, led a search for the culprit and caused his arrest and conviction. It goes without saying that a special watch cannot be placed on all the cars, but several remedies offer themselves. The special police of the Elevated, or even Boston officers, might man the rush-hour through in plain clothes. Train guards might be instructed what steps to take for quick action when complaints are made.

The mere fact that a determined effort was being made to curb this evil would go a long way toward ending it in entirety. When arrests occur, the law provides a means of dealing with these creatures.

Groundhog Philosophy

Look at the Brighter Side of Life and the Shadows Will NOT Worry You

The annual appearance the other day of the groundhog—mechanical, legendary and otherwise—taught a lesson that a multitude of humanity well might heed with profit and mental comfort to themselves. The groundhog saw a shadow and ducked.

He had sense enough not to keep on looking. One shadow was his limit.

But, he did not have sense enough to turn around. If he had, he would have seen something bright—the sun.

Too many of us are inclined, when we get a glimpse of the dark side of life, to keep on looking, as if we were hoping there'd be something even darker.

Like the groundhog, we lack the wit to turn around and look on the brighter side—and there NEARLY ALWAYS is a brighter side. Seldom is anything quite so bad that it could not be worse. A man with a broken leg might have two broken legs.

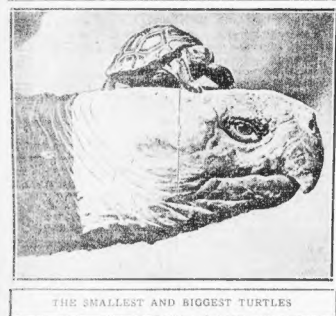

A little more mercurial, a little less gloom, and an ounce or so of reasoning would lift some of us above the philosophy of the groundhog.

There are any number of laughs hanging round idle, and some of them are yours for the taking.

So, have one, and don't be a groundhog.

Giant and Dwarf Turtles

The Dwarf Sees Farther Than the Giant

THE SMALLEST AND BIGGEST TURTLES

This interesting picture, useful to the thoughtful reader, is reproduced from the New York Zoological Society's Bulletin No. 1 by Morris Rosenfield.

It shows the tiniest turtle in the Zoological Garden, a native of Alderbank Island, one of the Galapagos Islands, weighing 3 1/2 ounces. He is perched on the head of the Zoo's BIGGEST turtle, a giant from the Galapagos Islands, weighing 350 pounds and probably 300 years old.

Both turtles come from the same island group in the Pacific Ocean.

Giant turtles like the one in this picture once swarmed over all those islands and gave their name to the islands. "Galapagos" means "turtles." Unfortunately sailors from many ships came to the islands, killed thousands of the turtles, some for fresh meat; more were killed simply for "sport." Then hunters from Ecuador came pursuing the turtles for their oil. And, worst of all, ships visiting the islands left on them cats, dogs, pigs, that multiplied, grew wild and destroyed much of the strange, interesting animal life. Only a few of the giant turtles now remain.

Fortunately, the United States Bureau of Fisheries interested itself; 180 of the big tortoises were caught in the mountains of one of the islands. Turtle-breeding colonies have been established in Panama, Bermuda, San Diego, New Orleans.

And the race of giant turtles, thoughtful, slow, long lived, will not die out.

The interesting thing, and the moral for young and old, resides in the fact that the little turtle on the big turtle's head can see FARTHER than the big turtle can see.

Assuming they both have equally good eyesight, the little turtle, in spite of his size, has wider vision than the big turtle, because he is higher up in the world, confirming the old statement, "A dwarf on a giant's shoulders sees farther than the giant can see."

Let us climb up as high as we can and see as far as we can, and then try to DO something.

Bushnell's Police Law Class Goes Big

By FRANKLIN COLLIER

LISTEN, THEN!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

ONCE the superior charm of the European girl consisted in her poise, her spontaneity, her frank, responsive enthusiasm.

Her beauty was as the beauty of the bright rose of morning or the merry marigold beside the pallid chain of the languorous lilies of France or the odd orchid-like loveliness of English daisies.

She was the sparkle, the color, the life of the party, wherever she went. Open-eyed, vivacious, inquisitive, she walked 'em UP! At night, her men's eyes lagged, their formality relaxed and their spirits rose.

She was the spirit of gaiety, youth, vivacity and ingenuously joy. Her buoyancy and animation were positively infectious. She went to the head like wine!

But now she has become a SOPHISTICATE! Oh, no, no, yet! If anything could give her a kick or a thrill she would DIE before she would let you know it!

Her once ready laugh has shrunk to a pained, constrained little smile of forbearance or tolerance. The wide-open baby-state, that once went straight to every man's heart, has given place to the drooping lip.

Because what a man loves in a woman is warmth and intimacy and emotional appeal. And a stuffy doll has no emotional appeal.

O. O. M'INTYRE

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Poverty has that miasma thickness of fog in London's West End and even in humbler quarters is reaching around the East India Road docks and in the caseworks of Limehouse. Faces of the gaunt and listless men are changed by the alchemy of alcohol into flabby blobs—like a kidney.

The alga-zuving women are large, bony, hard breathing and loud voiced, constantly haranguing undemocratic children who appear whipped by life. In the famous Whitechapel district this morning a Salvationist tried to lift a third tired voice above the sidewalk mockery. She finally gave up amid jeers.

Whitechapel is too steeped in the glut of materialism to heed the call of the spirit. And London, ever haughty and aloof, appears to the stranger to have given sympathy for its poor. It seems to follow the Serbian proverb: "It who weeps for the world will soon have no eyes."

Indeed, nothing is so fascinating to the Britisher as pomp and glory of royal purple, and in this he heartily follows the deep rooted hereditary customs. He is easily disturbed because a ruler has not had his afternoon drive or walk than he is by a monarch's empty stanzas in Champagne.

The monarchial appeal is inaudible in America we would claim it as a species of high powered dress agency. In every stratum the knee bends to the Crown. One is unconsciously awed. The British deities is reflected by the press, the cinema, the business world, theater and cafe—every thing.

So alluring is the gesture the visitor is immediately gripped by it. About the first thing he does is to look for a drive to Buckingham Palace nurturing a secret wish for a penicil royalty. One rode in a blinding rain to Windsor to see the King who—He is knocked out.

My experience to the West End—a street scribble—second ride to a tea room conducted by a Chinese. It is a repeated rendezvous for American drug addicts. The two nations have been well known Broadway addresses. Whether they are addicts I do not know. For, being the fellow I am, I am, I ask.

The rich and dressy side is a few steps by Mayfair. Here one sees the London splendor that is fascinating. Magnificent mansions and gorgeous gardens, cobbed horses drawing glittering turnout.

WITH my usual flare for titling against ennui, I am planning to follow up my coverage with a few sets of Scotch and soda and a visit to the night club. I shall then go on my bicycle and whither away.

For reading all this stuff is that you will understand men and women as you never have before. No, thank you. One doesn't have to be a philosopher to understand men and women. One needs a heart that is weak and imperious.

One needs a heart that is weak and imperious. One needs a heart that is weak and imperious. One needs a heart that is weak and imperious.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

We must not blame God for the city for man made him. He is the reason the city is what it is, but his own dirt and carelessness.

Life is made up of snobs, snuffies and smiles with the snuffies predominating. Henry Porter.

The worst arrows in life are not of iron and misfortune, but of fear. Emerson.

Every man is a volume if you know how to read it. —Channing.
